“Children do not have a larger vocabulary because they are smarter - they are smarter because they have a larger vocabulary.”

Research indicates that children with larger vocabularies have higher school achievement in general and higher reading achievement in particular.

Enhance vocabulary instruction by engaging students in Games that build vocabulary with repetition, practice and fun. Vocabulary games can help to keep a student engaged in the lesson.

Remember:

- Talking is our main method of communication and Vocabulary development is crucial to success in reading.
- Children need to encounter a word on numerous occasions before it can be truly learned.
- People with larger vocabularies even have higher IQs.

Workshop outline:

The workshop will be extremely practical and will provide numerous games, ideas and activities that you can use immediately in class. The games can be played in small groups or as a class. Suitable for Primary and Lower Secondary students.

Workshop Content Includes:

- The differences between Receptive and Expressive Vocabulary
- Why it is important to develop Vocabulary including the impact on reading, communication and self- confidence
- Different ways to develop Vocabulary in the classroom
- The Most effective ways to teach Vocabulary
- Why games are important
- Workshop Participants will be playing a number of the games-to see how they can be used in groups and as a class and how they can be adapted for different abilities
- Websites with additional ideas for teachers and interactive sites to use with students
- All the games ideas will be provided as hand-outs

This PD can be delivered as a full day or condensed to a half day or 2.5 hour twilight

Workshops can be tailored to individual school needs and can be offered all over Victoria for up to 50 members of staff.

About the presenter

Karen Starkiss

Karen brings over 30 years of experience as a teacher of primary and secondary students in the UK and therefore knows what to recommend and what is practical for teachers.

In England, she was principal of one of the top performing primary schools, despite the fact that she had the highest number of students with severe Learning Difficulties in the county. She has also worked in “failing” schools to quickly improve standards of teaching and learning and helped many schools audit their provision and become inclusive for students with LD.

In 2006 she moved to Australia where she has since established the Dyslexia Assessments and Support Services. Karen has wide experience in assessing dyslexic children, teenagers and adults for learning difficulties and is currently providing in-service professional development to schools regarding creating and implementing dyslexia-friendly schools as well as being part of a number of focus groups contributing ideas and suggestions to improve provision for children and adults with dyslexia and other LDs.

Karen has been interviewed by the Age and ABC radio about her expertise in dyslexia, has advised a government task force in Canberra about supporting children with learning difficulties and run training for school principals, teachers and classroom aides.

During 2013 & 2014 she worked with the education departments in the ACT and the Northern Territory to present a program to help schools become inclusive and accessible to all students; provided training for, School Principals, Expert and Lead teachers and professionals to enable them to implement the program in individual schools

In 2015 Karen was invited by the Wellbeing team at Department of Education and Training Vic to join the Learning Difficulties and Dyslexia Stakeholder Reference Group who advise about supporting schools to become diverse and inclusive for students with Learning Difficulties/Disabilities.
