Testimonies

An excellent source of PD for Teachers about Dyslexia. Karen is incredibly knowledgeable and is able to transfer that knowledge in an engaging and effective way. From the standpoint of an organiser of Professional Development and also as a participant I have no hesitation in recommending Karen Starkiss.”

Melinda Lichnovsky-Klock CRT coordinator

“Finally! A PD that includes all the important information I need to know AND practical games and activities that I can use in my classroom. Thank you.” JW - Berwick Primary

The PSD Review Report said ‘There are widespread concerns that students with dyslexia are not consistently well supported in their specific needs by all schools.’

By creating a ‘Dyslexia-Friendly’ Classroom all learners will benefit

Workshop outline:

This course will be extremely practical and will provide ideas, activities and resources that you can use immediately in class.

Workshop content includes:

- How to identify a student with SpLD
- Formative Assessment: how to present the assessment
- Planning a unit of work: considerations

- What my lesson should look like: explicit, direct systematic teaching
- How to create an inclusive classroom environment to support all learners, whole class and individual
- Strategies, approaches and resources that can be implemented immediately
- Using IT to support students with particular reference to reading and writing
- Alternatives to the written response
- Support for tests/exams
- Lots of ideas and practical activities to support learners
- Useful websites with free resources to support the teacher and the students

Workshops can be tailored to individual school needs and can be offered all over Victoria for up to 50 members of staff.

About the presenter

Karen Starkiss

Karen brings over 30 years of experience as a teacher of primary and secondary students in the UK and therefore knows what to recommend and what is practical for teachers.

In England, she was principal of one of the top performing primary schools, despite the fact that she had the highest number of students with severe Learning Difficulties in the county. She has also worked in “failing” schools to quickly improve standards of teaching and learning and helped many schools audit their provision and become inclusive for students with LD.

In 2006 she moved to Australia where she has since established the Dyslexia Assessments and Support Services. Karen has wide experience in assessing dyslexic children, teenagers and adults for learning difficulties and is currently providing in-service professional development to schools regarding creating and implementing dyslexia-friendly schools as well as being part of a number of focus groups contributing ideas and suggestions to improve provision for children and adults with dyslexia and other LDs.

Karen has been interviewed by the Age and ABC radio about her expertise in dyslexia, has advised a government task force in Canberra about supporting children with learning difficulties and run training for school principals, teachers and classroom aides.

During 2013 & 2014 she worked with the education departments in the ACT and the Northern Territory to present a program to help schools become inclusive and accessible to all students; provided training for, School Principals, Expert and Lead teachers and professionals to enable them to implement the program in individual schools

In 2015 Karen was invited by the Wellbeing team at Department of Education and Training Vic to join the Learning Difficulties and Dyslexia Stakeholder Reference Group who advise about supporting schools to become diverse and inclusive for students with Learning Difficulties/Disabilities.
